

Simplifying repo trading so you can focus on what matters

Anvil Execution, ION's repo e-trading solution gives you everything you need in one screen. So, you can:

- Connect to all your markets, access critical information, and trade at the best prices at a single click.
- View every aspect of your business at a glance
- Have full control at your fingertips.

It's quick to deploy, with go live in just weeks.

Regulation, a drive for efficiency, and uncertain market conditions increase the need for simplification and automation in repo e-trading. Electronic trading already accounts for over 30% of total repo volumes.

Running a repo business on unconnected venues and tools while relying on outdated technology is frustrating and risky. Advanced technology – such as Anvil Execution – can simplify this complexity.

As a repo trader, you must keep track of many markets and brokers, market data, positions, trades, and emails. When you've this information is spread across outdated and disconnected screens, trying to keep up can be challenging.

Conversely, Anvil Execution gives you everything you need in one screen:

- See all your liquidity in one view for multi-market aggregation, inventory management, and order management.
- Use trading statistics to anticipate trends and build custom strategies.
- Connect to every major electronic D2D platform and ION's adapters for straight-through processing (STP), market data, and order management.
