

Simplifying your repo business through automation

With Anvil Trade Processing, you can do everything you need to optimize your repo trade management business in one place. You can:

- Streamline your trade management using bulk processing,
- Automate complex tasks like transfer pricing.
- Build the workflows you need, complete with alerts, approvals, and permissions.
- Focus your attention exactly where it's needed.
- Get instant access to the data you need to deliver deeper insights into your business and make better decisions.

Many repo desks rely on outdated systems that haven't kept pace with the growth and increasing complexity of repo markets. Advanced technology – such as ION's Anvil Trade Processing solution – can simplify this complexity, putting you in control and equipping your business to thrive.

Anvil Trade Processing is a single solution for repo, securities lending, and collateral trading across fixed income and equities. It simplifies your workflows, and gives you instant access to critical information like your execution performance, funding, positions, risk exposure, and settlement.

Get all the data you need in one place

Find information easily to make accurate trading decisions quickly.

Take control of the full trade lifecycle

Manage and monitor your trades, their mid-life events, and your risk, P&L, and transfer pricing in one system.

Automate your workflows

Eliminate repetitive manual tasks, giving you more time to manage exceptions and focus on issues that require your attention.

Get a complete view of your collateral

See everything you need to manage your collateral, risk, and balance sheet.

Free your business to grow

We can host your solution in the ION Cloud, reducing your infrastructure costs while also giving you improved performance, support, maintenance, and the best possible security.
